Forum Animal Health launches Christmas poisoning survey

Veterinary professionals from around the country are being urged to complete a survey on Christmas poisoning cases.

The survey is an initiative by Forum Animal Health, maker of Apometic[®], to explore the number of canine poisoning cases presented in practices over the Christmas period. It will take just five minutes to complete online and the aim is to explore what was ingested, what action was taken and the outcome due to the poisoning.

Those participating in the survey will be entered into a prize draw to win £120 of Majestic Wine vouchers. To register to take part please email animal.health@forumgroup.co.uk.
